Toledo Museum of Art

Message from the President and Director

Dear Friends,

Dear Friends,

As we near the end of the Toledo Museum of Art's first century, it is evident that the continuing success of this great institution is due to two overriding principles that have guided its operation since its founding by Edward Drummond Libbey in 1901.

The first of these principles is the Museum's unwavering insistence that the standard of the collection and programs be the very highest. Adherence to this principle has earned the Museum an international reputation for the excellence both of its collection and its innovative programming.

The second principle is the conviction that the Museum be an institution that benefits everyone in the community. One hundred years ago, when museums were the province of the cultured elite, this concept was revolutionary. The Toledo Museum of Art was among the first institutions to embrace this new idea, dedicating itself to establish a Museum that should, as former director George W. Stevens often said, "inspire, not awe."

We remain today as firmly committed to these two principles as were our founders. During the past fiscal year, we have demonstrated this commitment through achievements in a number of areas, including acquisitions, exhibitions, programs, education, and community events. Together, these accomplishments represent not only this past year's success, but also the platform upon which we continue to plan and prepare for the Museum's future.

As you read through this annual report, you will learn more about these achievements. However, we would like to highlight several we think you will find particularly interesting:

• In last year's annual report, we noted that our Board of Trustees was examining how well it worked and looking for opportunities that might improve how it functions as a governing body. During the past year, we have narrowed our focus to the work of our committees, where the Board accomplishes so much of what it is expected to do. Each committee has been charged with reviewing its mission and operating guidelines and suggesting changes and/or additions in existing documents, where appropriate. This work has been largely completed, but still must be formalized by the entire Board. Valuable insight is being gained through this process.

• The Museum continues to build an organizational culture that allows us to focus on eight strategic goals. We plan to increase and broaden attendance; expand relationships with existing audiences; strengthen staff commitment to the mission; maximize the visitor experience; ensure that the collection is safe, secure, and conserved; ensure that the collection is dynamic, evolving, and used to its potential; make certain information is useful, available, and complete; and provide excellent stewardship of the Museum's fiscal, human, and physical assets to fulfill Mr. Libbey's challenge "to do more for the future than the past has done for the present."

Fernand Léger (French, 1881–1955), Esquisse pour "La Ville" (Sketch for "The City"), 1919, oil on canvas, Purchased with funds from the Libbey Endowment, Gift of Edward Drummond Libbey, 2000.9

• The Museum's publications department and curatorial staff, along with the research and publications team, have created a comprehensive publications plan that will enable us to systematically encourage research on the collection and to plan ways to publish it that meet contemporary needs. Our current projects include catalogues for the exhibitions, The Alliance of Art and Industry: Toledo Designs (March 2002) and The Molly and Walter Bareiss Collection of Modern Illustrated Books (February 2003). Both involve the energy and points of view of multiple authors. To complement the three archival exhibitions planned in conjunction with our Centennial, we are working on The Enduring Legacy: A Pictorial History of the Toledo Museum of Art.

• Members of our development staff, along with an extraordinarily dedicated group of volunteers, have put all but the finishing touches on an exciting capital and planned giving campaign scheduled to be launched during our 2001 Centennial. The purpose of this campaign is to provide funds for six major initiatives. Some of these are already underway, and we hope that almost all are realized within the next three to five years. We plan to construct a Center for Glass; create an outdoor sculpture garden; complete a Community Arts Organizations Center; enhance physical access to the Museum; preserve our physical plant; and build the Museum's endowment for the next century. Together, these initiatives will help us better display and interpret our collection, develop a Museum campus, create the synergy that comes from closer association with other arts organizations and our Old West End neighborhood, and position us to meet the challenges of the future.

• Finally, everyone at the Museum—Trustees, staff, and volunteers—has been working hard to guarantee that our 2001 Centennial Celebration is a year that no one in our community will soon forget. We have scheduled three major exhibitions, including Eternal Egypt: Masterworks of Ancient Art from the British Museum (March 2—May 27, 2001); Star Wars: The Magic of Myth (August 5, 2001—January 5, 2002); and Michelangelo: Drawings and Other Treasures from the Casa Buonarroti, Florence (September 21—November 25, 2001). On April 18, 2001, the one hundredth anniversary of the Museum's founding, we will unveil From the Archives, A Centennial Exhibition, and kick off The People's Choice, a five-month campaign during which people can vote for their favorite art in the Museum. On Friday, June 1, 2001, we will dedicate the Museum's sculpture garden, and then on Saturday, the 2nd, we will host an all-day "Party of the Century" to which the entire community is invited. The Alliance of Art and Industry: Toledo Designs will cap the exhibitions for this extraordinary year. These are just some of the high points of the many events we have scheduled to commemorate our first century.

We now invite you to read on to learn about additional initiatives our very skilled and devoted staff has undertaken to achieve the strategic goals that support the Museum's mission:

> We believe in the power of art to ignite the imagination, stimulate thought, and provide enjoyment. Through our collection and programs we strive to integrate art into the lives of people.

As we prepare to step into our second century, the Museum will build upon the principles and successes of our past to create an even more exciting future—but we cannot do it alone. We are counting on each and every one of you to join us in our journey. Your generosity has been integral to our success, and will remain so in the future. However, we consider it equally important that you take advantage of all the Museum has to offer: visit our permanent collection, sign up for a class, drop in for lunch at the Café, attend our Centennial events, shop The Museum Store, see the work of local artists at Collector's Corner, make It's Friday a regular part of your week, and come to each of our special exhibitions. We hope to see you often at the Museum.

Sincerely,

Richard P. Anderson

1999/2000
Highlights

This was a milestone year...

School of Art and Design

This was a milestone year for the Museum's School of Art and Design.

• Enrollment grew significantly. The total number of students attending classes was 2,382, a thirty-four-percent increase from the previous fiscal year. Of that total, 1,669 were young artists and 713 were adults, representing increases of twenty-seven and fifty-five percent, respectively, from 1998/1999.

• For the first time in ten years, the School reintroduced printmaking to its curriculum with the development of a printmaking studio that became fully operational in January 2000.

• In keeping with the Museum's mission to integrate art into the lives of everyone in the community, the School awarded 103 scholarships to deserving students who might not otherwise be able to afford classes.

Exhibitions

One of the Museum's goals is to serve a larger audience by appealing to people with diverse interests. To that end, we hosted three very different traveling exhibitions during 1999/2000, while highlighting works from our permanent collection in a fourth.

Visitors learning more about An American Treasury

• An American Treasury: Master Quilts from the Museum of American Folk Art
October 1, 1999–January 20, 2000

This exhibition celebrated the continually evolving art form of the American quilt. Comprised of forty-five masterpieces from the Museum of American Folk Art's collection of over four hundred quilts, An American Treasury covered the story of quilting in the United States from its earliest days to modern times, focusing not only on craftsmanship, but also on the quilt as tactile history.

• Picasso: Graphic Magician
Prints from the Norton Simon Museum
November 7, 1999–January 16, 2000

This show provided our visitors with a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to view over one hundred twenty prints by the most celebrated artist of the twentieth century, Pablo Picasso. Curated by Betsy Fryberger, the exhibition included etchings from the 1930s, lithographs from the 1940s, and a wide range of experimental processes from the 1950s and 1960s. When the exhibition closed at the Toledo Museum of Art, these prints returned to the Norton Simon Museum in California, never to travel again.

• Philippe Halsman: A Retrospective
From the National Portrait Gallery, Washington D.C.
November 14, 1999–January 9, 2000

Showcasing the work of one of this century's most prolific photographers, this exhibition included portraits of Marilyn Monroe, Audrey Hepburn, Marlon Brando, and dozens of other celebrities from the worlds of politics, business, and the arts. Although the name Halsman is not well known, he became a leading authority in fashion photography, first in Paris and then New York. This retrospective highlighted his extensive work for Life magazine, for which he produced more than one hundred covers.

• Japanese Treasures: The Art of Netsuke Carving
April 20–June 11, 2000

Netsuke are small carved toggles used by the Japanese during the Edo period (1615–1868) to hold containers on the belt of a kimono. This exhibition featured fifty of the finest netsuke from the Museum's holdings of more than two hundred fifty.

The Visitor Experience

When people come to the Museum, we want them to have a great experience. During 1999/2000, we worked hard to achieve that goal, both by developing new experiences, and also by marketing exhibitions in a way that better met the needs and interests of a wide variety of visitors.

• Going to the Dogs: In Celebration of Dogs

Did you know that one in every three people in the Toledo metropolitan area has a dog? If you find that hard to believe, you would have been thoroughly convinced by the response to In Celebration of Dogs. This month-long Focus on Fido was an effort to reach out to folks through their canine companions. In April, we "Spot"-lighted dogs in the Museum's works of art by highlighting them with a paw print, then invited families to our galleries to "hunt" for the dogs and learn about the role they have played in art. On April 7 and 8, we hosted an outdoor festival on the Museum lawn which, in spite of the snow (!) that weekend, attracted approximately four thousand people and their best friends. Nonprofit animal organizations such as the Toledo Humane Society,

It's Friday performers, North Coast Theater

Service Dogs of America, and Planned Pethood provided information and services, while local architects who had designed doghouses with specific canines in mind introduced their furry clients. An auction of the houses raised $3,800, half of which was designated to the participating nonprofit animal organizations.

• The Museum's Triple Play: Quilts, Picasso, and Halsman

Although eighty-six percent of Museum visitors arrive at our doors as part of a group, not everyone in the group shares the same interests. By presenting the Quilts, Picasso, and Halsman exhibitions as a cultural "smorgasbord" from which individuals within a group might choose their favorites, we made it possible for people to travel to the Museum together, separate to visit the exhibition they preferred, then regroup—often in the Museum Café—to share their experiences. The response to our "triple play" was so positive that we are looking for ways to include the concept as we plan future exhibitions.

• Exploring Another Culture: Netsuke

This exhibition served as a conduit to another culture, providing our visitors, not only with the opportunity to view the exquisite netsuke, but also to listen to Japanese music, see a koi pond, handle objects, and watch a video about traditional clothing. To further enhance these experiences, we designed special programming that took place within the exhibition: visitors participated in a tea ceremony, learned the importance of a tokonoma (a meditation or picture alcove where a scroll and flower arrangement are displayed), and saw a demonstration of the art of ikibana (flower arranging).

• Reminding a New Generation that We Must Never Forget: The Holocaust

During May, the Museum's Community Gallery displayed art created by area students in grades six through nine who participated in Remembering the Holocaust in the 21st Century, an art competition sponsored by the Ruth Fajerman Markowicz Holocaust Resource Center of Greater Toledo. The children expressed their feelings about this horrific time in history through works that were both powerful and pertinent to events in our own day.

Outreach to Educators

During 1999/2000, the Museum continued its century-long tradition of cultivating partnerships with schools and teachers throughout the community.

• A Salute to Educators

An education partnership formed by the Museum, The Blade, and WGTE Public Broadcasting hosted a gala evening at the Museum for two hundred educators on October 28, 1999. The filled-to-capacity event recognized and honored teachers and home-schooling parents with an evening of food, fun, and fellowship. The galleries were open, as was the special exhibition, An American Treasury: Master Quilts from the Museum of American Folk Art. Docent-guided tours were available throughout the evening.

In addition, educators observed glass demonstrations in the Glass Crafts building, followed by a visit to the Community Learning Resource Center to peruse materials on glass and American folk art. Participants learned about educational opportunities at the Museum, The Blade, and WGTE, and could sign up for workshops provided by the three institutions. The Museum's Art Reference Library and Visual Resources Collection were also open so that teachers could discover how these resources might aid them in their work.

Renovated Professional Building

• Using Community Resources Workshop

In June 2000, fifty teachers and home-schooling parents spent a week discovering the wealth of information and services available from education resources specialists at the Toledo Museum of Art; The Blade; COSI (Center of Science and Industry); Metroparks of the Toledo Area; Toledo-Lucas County Public Library; The Toledo Symphony; The Toledo Zoo; and WGTE. The workshop included visits to each institution and firsthand learning opportunities, and ended with Resource Fair which highlighted additional educational resources.

• Art and Literature Lesson Plans

"Art and Literature," a new packet of teacher-designed lesson plans based on the Museum's collections, was made available in the Community Learning Resource Center. Six teams of art teachers and classroom or language arts teachers from six Toledo area schools developed this notebook of field-tested plans over the course of several months. The plans use the Museum's collections as a basis for the study of literature and creative writing. This is the first interdisciplinary packet in a series of six funded since 1993 by the Martha Holden Jennings Foundation.

Building Renovations and Restorations

When the Museum's main building was dedicated in 1912, the New York Times reported that the beautiful white marble structure was acknowledged to be among the finest in the world. Because time has taken its toll in the ensuing years, during 1999/2000 we developed an ambitious master plan to upgrade both the building and Museum campus.

The plan was approved by the Old West End Commission and the Toledo Plan Commission in April, and work began in early summer to rebuild the crumbling Peristyle entrance steps, repair the roof, and renovate the marble exterior of the building for the first time since it was constructed. Workers also began upgrading interior mechanical and electrical systems.

Continuum, Albert Paley, being installed across from the Grove Place entrance

In addition, we took steps to create a Community Arts Organizations Center by renovating a professional building across from the Museum. Part of the former Parkview Hospital campus, the building now houses The Toledo Symphony, the Arts Commission of Greater Toledo, and the Performing Arts Council of Toledo. Preliminary work also began on a sculpture garden between the Museum and Monroe Street; it will be dedicated in 2001 as part of the Centennial Celebration.

To cover a portion of the cost of these projects, the Museum issued $15 million in bonds in 1999 through the Toledo-Lucas County Port Authority; we hope to raise the remaining funds during a capital campaign that will be launched in 2001.

Volunteers/Docents/Aides

During the past year—as in so many years before — volunteers, docents, and aides played a vital role in the success of the Museum. We do not exaggerate when we say that, without the extraordinary dedication of these selfless individuals, the Museum could simply not serve as many people as it does today. For example, during the Picasso and American Quilts exhibitions, which ran concurrently, Museum volunteers worked double shifts, alternating their time between the two. Several volunteers spent many hours preparing to make art "come alive" for children during our annual Halloween Fantasy. Docents guided 31,697 children through the Museum in 1999, while ten music docents did yeoman service during the past fiscal year, taking a record 4,100 children on tours.

In all, 3,407 volunteers contributed 35,776 hours to the Toledo Museum of Art in 1999/2000.

Marketing

During 1999/2000, the marketing department oversaw the launch of a Museum identity program, including a new logo and graphic standards. This represented one of our first steps in an ongoing effort to make the Museum more user-friendly and welcoming. It was also a significant move toward creating a consistent identity in the marketplace upon which to build in the future.

The new logo was designed by Chermayeff & Geismar, a New York graphic design firm. Representing a picture frame, the logo can embrace every aspect of the Museum: its collections, programs, publications, promotions, activities, campus, and buildings. It also serves as a frame for entities within the Museum, such as the Family Center, the Peristyle, Library, and Resource Center. Chermayeff & Geismar developed guidelines for the logo's use, as well as graphic standards for Museum materials.

ArTravel

• During 1999/2000, 154 Museum Members participated in one-day domestic trips to such cities as Detroit, Cleveland, and Ann Arbor, and extended foreign and domestic trips to Los Angeles, Barcelona, England, and the French Riviera.

Inform

• 3,372 visitors used Inform, the free interactive audio guide underwritten by Ameritech, to better understand and appreciate our collections.

The Peristyle

• More than fifty thousand people attended forty-nine Peristyle events, including The Toledo Symphony Orchestra's popular Peristyle Season concerts in partnership with the Museum.

Classes and workshops

Students in the School of Art and Design

• Total number of students was 2,382 (713 adults and 1,669 young artists), an overall increase of thirty-four percent from 1998/1999.

Family Center

• This hands-on discovery center for families attracted a total of 6,193 children and adults on Thursdays and Sundays throughout the year.

Resource Center

• The Center has a patron list of 3,271, including teachers, home-schooling parents, University of Toledo staff and students, Museum staff, and the general public. From July 1, 1999, through June 30, 2000, approximately 3,575 items were circulated, including books, teacher packets, videotapes, handling objects, interactive CD-ROMs, audiotapes, posters, laser disks, educational toys, and discovery boxes.

Art Reference Library

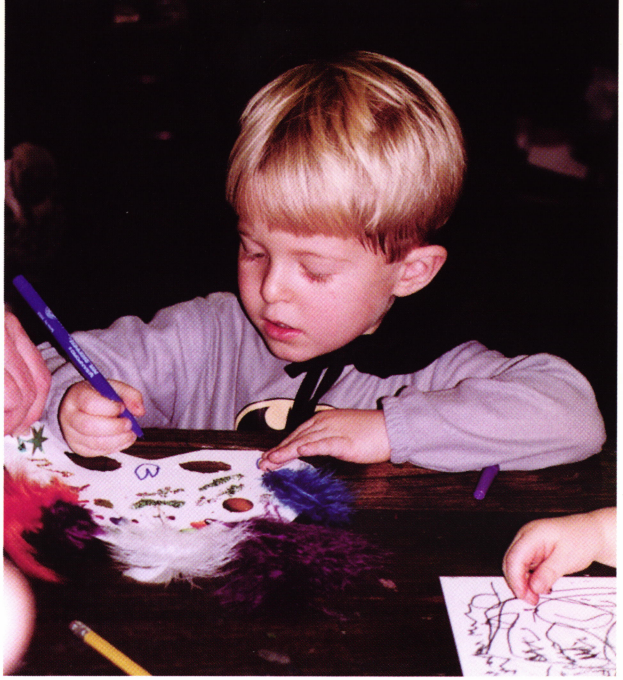
• 1,235 items were added to the catalog holdings, service was provided to 9,977 patrons, and 4,294 items were circulated.

Visual Resources Collection

• The collection added 8,453 slides to its holdings, circulated 23,500 slides, and fulfilled 863 audiovisual requests. Patrons included Museum Members and staff, university students, professors, and the public.

Loans to and from the Museum

• Sixty-three works of art were loaned to thirty-one exhibitions at twenty-six U.S. and twenty foreign sites. During the year, works from the Museum's collections have been in exhibitions in Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, and Switzerland.



Young artist making a mask

• Exclusive of the works in special exhibitions, the Museum borrowed 473 works of art for gallery installations or study purposes from thirteen private, museum, or corporate collections.

Technology

Thanks to the foresight and effort of the Museum's technology staff, we survived Y2K without a single glitch.

Accessions

To maintain the highest standards...

To maintain the highest standards set decades ago for the Museum, we choose to buy fewer works as prices continue to increase. The following sixty-four works of art have been added to the collection through gift and purchase during this past year.

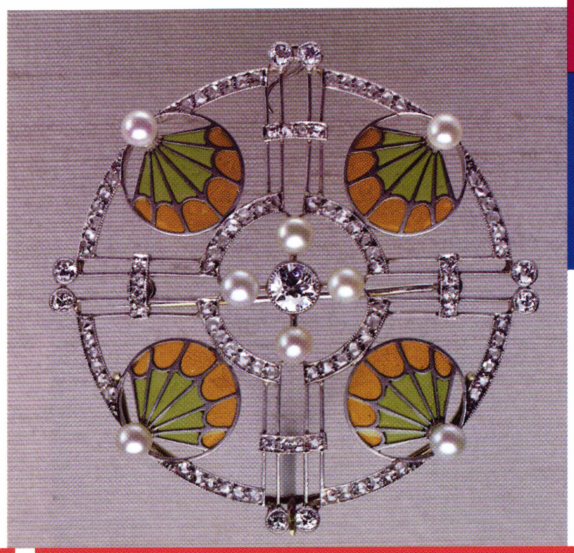
Financial Report



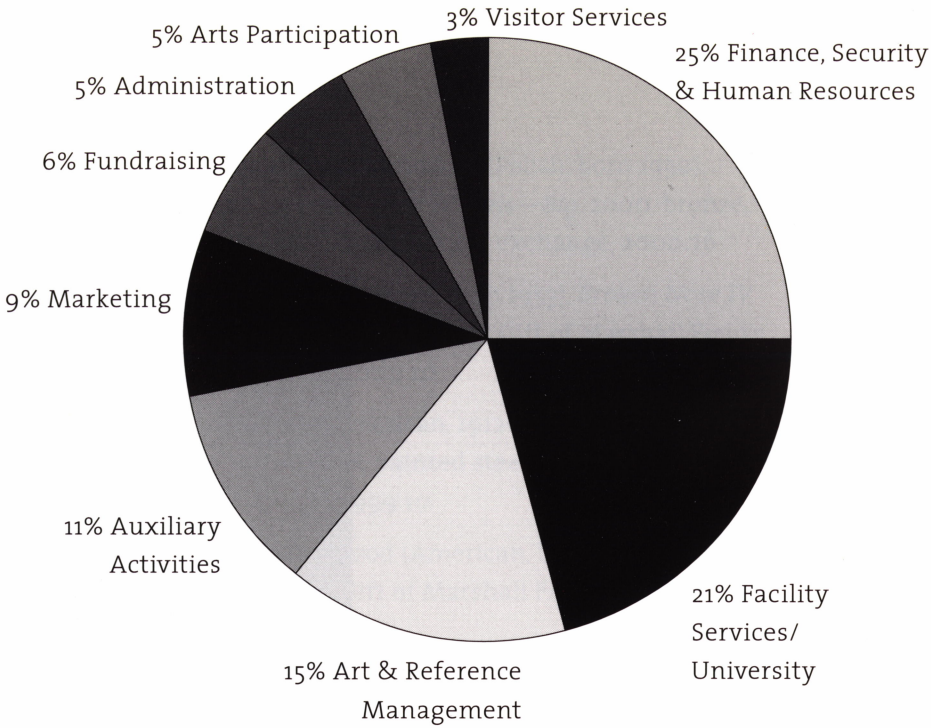
Thanks to excellent stewardship ...

Thanks to excellent stewardship of the Museum's endowments, coupled with conscious control of our expenditures, the Museum concluded fiscal year 1999/2000 with an operating fund surplus of $127,014.

Both the Museum and Libbey endowments supported our operations, providing over fifty percent of our revenue. Continued growth of the endowments provided a solid base of support for our activities and programs; support also came from the generous contributions of our donors and efforts of our development office. Auxiliary activities, tuition and fees provided the remaining support for the operations of the Museum:

During 1999/2000, the relationships we have built throughout the community enabled us to continue to fulfill our mission of integrating art into people's lives with little government support.

Total Expenses $10,716,630



Total Revenue & Support $10,843,644

Development

Annual giving was up 12 percent...

Major Donors

With a strong commitment from individuals, corporations, and foundations, gifts and memberships to the Museum increased by twelve percent last fiscal year, with total contributions reaching more than $3.7 million. This is a significant increase that reflects the overall generosity of the Toledo community and the pride that they take in the Museum's collection and programs. It is also a result of the many experienced fundraising volunteers who worked with staff members to broaden the Museum's base of support. Please know how very much we appreciate your support and thank you, again, for your generous contributions to the Museum.

President's Council

The President's Council recognizes individuals who made annual contributions of $1,000 or more. These contributions help to secure the Museum's international reputation, its collection, educational programming, and annual operations. Members of multiple donor groups are designated with symbols: l=Libbey Circle, a=Apollo Society, c=Centennial Society.
